WINTERBOTHAM, JOHN MILLER

AUTOGRAPH COLLECTION, 1772-1934; 500 items, MSS.

Letters with signatures of persons in public life, both English and American. In alphabetical order.

Actively interested in all movements for the advancement of education and culture in the community, Mr. Winterbotham is numbered among the supporters of many of the worthwhile activities of this nature in Galveston.

Born in Fort Madison, Iowa, a son of William Wrigley Winterbotham and Elizabeth (Miller) Winterbotham, he was educated in the schools of Iowa and at the University of Wisconsin, from which he received his degree of Bachelor of Laws. Upon his graduation, he practiced law in Madison, Wisconsin, for a time and came to Galveston in 1912 to take charge of the large estate of George Seeligson, which he is now managing.

A man of literary tastes, he is an inveterate reader and spends much of his leisure time with his books. He has taken a great interest in the Little Theater movement, and has heartily supported the successful efforts of the local group to establish that organization in the city. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Rosenberg Library Association, and greatly interested in the magnificent work of that institution. His counsel and advice have been most helpful in the management of the library and have contributed, in no small measure, to the expansion of its facilities.

He is a member of the Psi Upsilon college fraternity.

Mr. Winterbotham was married to Miss Lillian Seeligson, a member of one of Galveston's oldest families, and they have three children: Marie Meade of Galveston, George Seeligson, now in the University of Texas, and John M., who has just graduated from Princeton.
